

Biography

Brent A. Blouch

Senior Vice President, Supply Chain and Customer Solutions

Brent Blouch joined Swagelok Company in 2007 and was named to his current role of senior vice president, supply chain and customer solutions in 2020. In this role, Brent and his team are responsible for supply chain planning, capacity and inventory management, customer and technical service, and global sourcing and logistics.

During his Swagelok career, Brent has held a variety of leadership roles in planning, operations, and engineering within the organization's fitting services group. He was promoted to director of HR operations and then to director of the fitting services group before being appointed to vice president, global sourcing and logistics in 2016.

Outside of work, Brent enjoys spending time with his family. He is a proud Clevelander and enjoys serving on the board of Towards Employment, a non-profit organization with a mission of empowering local individuals to gain and maintain employment. In addition, he recently joined the advisory board for the Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering department at Miami University.

Brent holds a Bachelor of Science degree in manufacturing engineering from Miami University and an M.B.A from Case Western Reserve University.