

Biography

Matt Speece

Vice President, Sales Support

---

As vice president, sales support, Matt Speece leads the team responsible for the vision, strategies, and programs that ensure the health and vitality of Swagelok's global sales and service center network. This includes building cross-functional, commercially focused teams that bring corporate resources and knowledge closer to the customer, and creating a globally consistent, locally relevant, solutions-based customer experience in partnership with sales and service centers.

Matt joined Swagelok Company in 2009 as an engineer in the career development program. He held several roles within the company prior to becoming the first business manager for Swagelok's piping and pressure products group, where he had responsibility for all commercial and operational aspects of piping and medium- and high-pressure product lines, including marketing, operations, and engineering. In 2018, Matt was promoted to director, manufacturing strategies, becoming responsible for Swagelok's annual capital investment portfolio and the development of factory planning. He has also served as the director, valve services group.

Matt holds a bachelor's degree from The Ohio State University in mechanical engineering and a master's degree in business administration from Case Western Reserve University.